Generous LAFCU members, public donate to help Eaton Rapids community

More than 912 pounds of toiletries, food collected at LAFCU branches to help local charity

LANSING, Mich. — Thanks to the generosity of LAFCU members and the public, LAFCU’s month-long toiletries and food drive netted 912 pounds of donated items for an Eaton Rapids charity, Heart and Hands Inc.

The charity has been working with those impacted by the fire at Meridian Magnesium Products of America, an auto parts manufacturing plant in Eaton Rapids and the community’s largest employer.

“LAFCU and Heart and Hands opened their arms wide to help those affected by the fire at Meridian Magnesium,” said Paul Malewski, Eaton Rapids mayor. “Even a temporary closure of such a large employer has a ripple affect on our entire community for an extended period of time. Knowing we have this ‘safety net’ should be a great comfort and relief to all.”

Malewski said the brief closure of the manufacturer not only affected employees of the plant, but also those who work at support businesses, such as restaurants and other retail stores, that were not frequented as often or at all by plant employees.

goods to an Eaton Rapids charity. The items were collected during the credit union’s month-long toiletries and food drive to benefit those affected by the fire at Meridian Magnesium of America.

collected in the LAFCU toiletries and food drive for the Eaton Rapids community are Jordan McNeilly and Alyssa Sliger, with LAFCU’s marketing department; Eaton Rapids Mayor Paul Malewski; Heart and Hands Director Cathy Howell; Polly Cornish, manager of LAFCU’s Eaton Rapids and Mason branches; and Chrystal Murphy, manager of LAFCU’s South Lansing Branch.

Kelli Ellsworth Etchison, LAFCU chief marketing officer, said, “LAFCU is invested in the people and businesses of this community. When they hurt, we want to help. This is what credit unions are based upon ... ‘people helping people.’ The outpouring of support by our members and the public shows they, too, embrace this principle.”

Heart and Hands Inc. helps meet emergency needs of those living within the Eaton Rapids Public Schools district. Through Oct. 1, the charity's board of directors expanded service to any employee of Meridian Magnesium, no matter where they live.

Donations for the toiletries and food drive were collected at all LAFUCU branch offices in June. Collection boxes were provided by TWO MEN AND A TRUCK.
